

NewsLetter. AT. 8.16 (1)

Natural Reader

MyOn

Do your students have difficulty reading standard text? Did you know that you can access or create digital formats of text that can be read aloud using software and online tools?

Windows offers a free version of Natural Reader which will allow you to convert images, pdf files, webpages, ebooks, and office documents into documents that can be read. It uses Optical Character Recognition (OCR) technology to interpret and read text. This means you can convert any reading assignments for your students.

All TESD educators have access to MyOn an online database containing more than 5,000 high interest books complete with music and narration features.

Taking advantage of these resources will provide students who have difficulty decoding access to age appropriate content while respecting their need for independence.